The Federalist Papers

with

Charles R. Kesler

Author of an Introduction and Annotations in
The Federalist Papers and Professor of Political Science at Claremont-McKenna College in Claremont, California

Saturday, December 4, 1999
10:00 am to 2:00 pm

John M. Ashbrook Center for Public Affairs
Ashland University • 8th Floor, Library

Lunch will be provided. • A copy of The Federalist Papers will be provided prior to the seminar.
A letter will be given certifying attendance for CEU credit from your local PDC.

The Federalist Papers, written by Alexander Hamilton, James Madison, and John Jay, are a splendid defense of the Constitution of the United States. Professor Kesler, a well known scholar of American political thought, has written an introduction and annotations to the most commonly used edition of The Federalist Papers published by Mentor books. With the aid of the essays in The Federalist Papers, this seminar will examine the Constitution of the United States and the defense of the Constitution provided in The Federalist Papers.
